Your story

The constant evacuations throughout January 2020 made it evident that the problem of overhanging trees in the exit roads out of Penrose must to be addressed. Once the fire had passed through, it was scary not knowing if a tree was going to fall on the road in front of you or on top of you when driving in and out of the village. Vegetation in and around the village also needs to be limited and controlled through more hazard reduction as embers caused spot fires to occur. If there was less fuel, this would have been kept to a minimum and may not have occurred at all.
