1.4 Any other matters

I submit that apart from the questionable management of land owned by Government including but not limited to national parks and forestry etc legislation should be enacted in such a form that infrastructure is protected by the appropriate govt body/local council etc. This should apply to roads, rail, power lines for example. This should not be limited to the clearing of all trees and vegetation from a safe margin with particular attention to the highly inflammable and dangerous eucalyptus variety with special attention to bush fire prone areas.

The above would be obvious to a junior school student but no one in power has had any concern. What has gone wrong?
