	government needs to now urgently address ways of reducing the state's carbon emissions - a target date of 2050 is much too late.
1.2 Preparation and planning	There needs to be a comprehensive study of locations of threatened species and endangered ecological communities so that they can be better protected in case of fires. There must also be plans to undertake fire restoration and rehabilitation guidelines for those areas. There is no scientific evidence that show grazing or logging will reduce fire risk. Neither of these should be reintroduced into conservation areas.
1.3 Response to bushfires	The volunteer firefighters are an incredible group of people. It is unacceptable that the funding had been reduced by the government resulting in them not having enough trucks and equipment to fight the fires. Why should their lives be put at greater risk because of budget cuts? There were areas they couldn't fight fires because of this shortage. Funding must be secure and not aligned to specific grant programs.
1.4 Any other matters	I think it is time the knowledge and expertise of Aboriginal people is used to help better plan and carry out hazard reduction burning. It is very obvious the way we have been doing it is totally inappropriate and ineffective. In addition, we cannot allow the loss of over a billion native animals to be accepted as the new norm.
