The story that I'm sharing of fighting the govt re highway upgrade on the Pacific Highway is repeated over and over and over again all up and down the entire length of its corrupt and dangerous construction'. This upgrade has caused major flooding at Chinderah right down to Bulahdelah. There are stories of corruption and requests for an ICAC inquiry. Referenced documentation, links and photographs in regard to this brutally-conducted scheme can be located via the search bar at the RTA - RMS - Highway Upgrade Victims \(posts re other states accepted\) group.

One man with intimate knowledge of this landscape and the vile corrupted processes employed to build this monstrous piece of ecocidal and Aboriginal culture destroying infrastructure sent me the following: "I fought this highway from very late 2004 until 2009.. then gave up because it was like fighting God.. I k all responsible for this aberration... they have names including (RTA Environment Manager), (Pacific Highway upgrade manager) and (Woodburn to Ballina project manager).. I hope that when their cards are counted their responsibility for this ecocidal monstrosity is in the brew."

This photo tells it's own story. Not only did this part of the highway upgrade decimate the koala colony, it has now ruined the lives of many people and their towns.
