Good afternoon,

I couldn't help but notice a lot of cloud seeding that happened just before and during the severe wet weather and was wondering why and what's in the cloud seed?
And the cloud seeding planes' flight paths show them going to work heavily in the most affected areas.

Also, at random times on the BOM radar it showed very strange patterns which most certainly didn't seem natural so what's behind that?

In particular there seemed to be a very distinct beam coming from Moree which went directly from Moree to the North Coast, what's happening there?

Regards,
